In addition to the publications listed, volume 1 of the Mémoires de la Société Royale des Sciences et Arts du Cap-Français, published at Cap-Français in 1788, contains seven articles on the Eaux de Boynes;<sup>1</sup> five articles on the mineral springs of Mirebalais, Bánica,<sup>2</sup> Bas Moustion, Grande-Anse,<sup>3</sup> and the Montagne Noire (parish of Grande-Rivière du Nord); two articles on the salines of Aquin and the Artibonite;<sup>4</sup> and an article giving the analysis of a copper-bearing rock from Fort Dauphin. (See Cabon, 1916, pp. 164-165.) Most of these articles are mentioned by Moreau de St.-Méry. This society was founded in 1784 under the name Cercle des Philadelphes and was incorporated in 1789 as the Société Royale des Sciences et Arts du Cap-Français.
